

2011 in blogging

Happy New Year from WordPress.com!

To kick off the new year, we'd like to share with you data on your blog's activity in 2011. You may start scrolling!

Crunchy numbers

A New York City subway train holds 1,200 people. This blog was viewed about 4,100 times in 2011. If it were a NYC subway train, it would take about 3 trips to carry that many people.

In 2011, there were 29 new posts, growing the total archive of this blog to 102 posts.

The busiest day of the year was December 7th with 84 views. The most popular post that day was No Shave November.

How did they find you?

The top referring sites in 2011 were:

- facebook.com
- twitter.com
- aud.edu
- wordpress.org
- beirutstreetphotography.com

Some visitors came searching, mostly for meedo, allegory of the cave, meedo taha, kulluna lil watan, and budida.

Where did they come from?

Most visitors came from United Arab Emirates. The United States & Lebanon were not far behind.

Attractions in 2011

These are the posts that got the most views in 2011. You can see all of the year's most-viewed posts in your Site Stats.

1	No Shave November	0 comments	December 2011
2	Suspension of Disbelief	0 comments	January 2011
3	The Godfather	6 comments	May 2010
4	A Road to Damascus	0 comments	November 2010
5	Playtime	5 comments	June 2010

Some of your most popular posts were written before 2011. Your writing has staying power! Consider writing about those topics again.

See you in 2012